Panel 1

The crimson sun dips below the rust-hued Martian horizon as astronaut Jackson's suit-glow casts an eerie blue light upon his determined face. He stands at the edge of a vast, ancient cityscape, the crumbling spires and towers of the alien metropolis stretching out like skeletal fingers towards him.

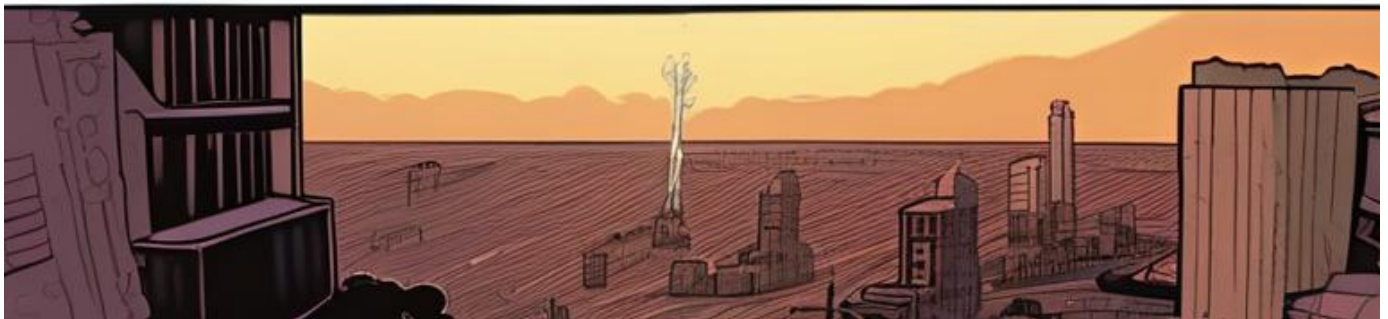

Panel 2

The lone astronaut, Captain Jaxon, stands at the edge of a dusty Martian ravine, the crimson sunset casting long shadows across the barren landscape. The distant city's towering spires pierce the sky like shards of obsidian, as the rust-red light of Mars' twin moons, Phobos and Deimos, casts an eerie glow on the ancient structures. Camera is low-angle, looking up at Captain Jaxon from behind a massive rock outcropping. In his gloved hand, he clutches a worn leather-bound journal, its pages fluttering in the gentle Martian breeze like a suppliant's wings.

Panel 3

The astronaut stands at the edge of an ancient Martian city, the ruins stretching out like skeletal fingers towards a crimson sunset. The sky is ablaze with hues of rust and orange, casting long shadows across the dusty streets. In the foreground, a glowing artifact on a pedestal illuminates the astronaut's face, casting an otherworldly glow on their helmeted features.

Panel 4

Darkened Martian dust devils swirl around the astronaut's boots as he stands atop a crumbling skyscraper, the cityscape stretching out before him in ruinous silence. The distant rust-red hue of the sunset-kissed horizon casts long shadows across the rubble-strewn streets, while the faint glow of bioluminescent plants illuminates the eerie stillness. From this vantage point, the astronaut's helmeted gaze peers out at the desolate landscape, his face a mask of wonder and trepidation.
